IOWA EDITOR TELLS HOW THINGS ARE DONE IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Editor D. W. Norris of the Marshalltown, Iowa, Times-Republican with his family, consisting of a wife and five children, spent the past winter in Southern California, leasing a home on Orange Grove avenue, Pasadena. The Norris family visited frequently in Glendale, where they are well known as there are seventy former residents of Marshalltown residing here.

Heretofore the Times-Republican's editorial columns were filled with sarcastic remarks about the people who would leave Iowa to reside in California, but he now seems to belong to the same class as he who "went to scoff and remained to pray."

From an editorial in the Times-Republican of April 3, the day after Mr. Norris' return to Marshalltown, he has been converted. All who have lived in the middle west know that the soft mantle of white which covers everything during the winter months leaves in its wake when it disappears in the spring unsightly things that have been left to accumulate for half a year. It was to this condition of affairs evidently that Mr. Norris went home and the contrast between the clean wide streets, free of rubbish, lawns and parks lined with green trees, flowers and shrubs, and what he found there must have been noticeable to say the least.

Mr. Norris says in his editorial: "Spring is here. It does not feel just like it, but it is here. Ash piles, tin cans, mulching and litter of all kinds must be done away with. Let there be no delay, for the neglect of one property owner creates unsightly surroundings for the whole neighborhood; it actually depreciates values on the entire street."

"And when the premises are cleaned up it might be well to do some planting for beauty. Mr. Rubee will change the landscape around the court house this spring with a few bushes and trees but Rubee has no monopoly on bushes or trees. Currant and gooseberry bushes make excellent hedge rows and could be used for ornamental clumps on the lawn. Fruit trees thrive in the back lot and grape vines will completely cover the back fence if given an opportunity. For screening outbuildings lilac bushes are cheap, grow fast and are beautiful. One editor of this newspaper has returned from Pasadena, where the city park commissioner has complete charge of the parkings between sidewalk and curb and maintains them on each street planting and trimming the trees and cutting the grass independently of the lot owner, and the Women's City Beautiful society sends men and teams about town plowing up the weeds on vacant lots until that city is the gem of all Southern California for beauty. We can do the same in Marshalltown if we will only try."

"Our citizens will approve the decision of the city council to raise the street paving flush with the sidewalks at street intersections in the business district. We have seen what it means at Center and Main streets and we all want it done elsewhere. When new paving is designed for residence districts the same convenience should be accomplished in the new work. The elimination of the curb step at crossings is very common in western cities where most of the street paving has been done within recent years and upon modern engineering lines."

"It is to be hoped that the school boards of the county will be fully represented at the county convention next Tuesday for selecting a county superintendent. The legislature has made an effort to dignify the position of county superintendent and make of it an executive office of some positive force in the general management of the country schools and it is now up to the various school boards to select an officer who can measure up to the purposes of the office. Indifference and non-attendance will probably be rewarded by service of a similar kind."

"And it is time the playground movement were revived for the out-of-doors season is here. A man has to go away from home to really appreciate how slow an old community is to adopt modern ideas of progress for there is scarcely a country school or village school in Southern California which is not provided with adequate grounds and complete equipment for children's play. Out in the rural communities the union schools have swings, turning bars, merry-go-rounds, running tracks, basketball grounds and tennis courts as well as bicycle sheds. To an Iowan accustomed to the shack at the country cross roads which we call a school house with its twin out-

WORLD CONFERENCE

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS TO GATHER FROM ALL PARTS OF WORLD

The general conference committee of the Seventh Day Adventists, the governing body for the entire world, will hold its autumn council at San Francisco and Loma Linda, Cal., November 5 to 30. The sessions at Loma Linda will be from November 5 to 27. A two-day session will be held November 29 and 30 at the Panama-Pacific Exposition pavilion, in the Civic Center, at San Francisco, which seats more than 10,000 persons. The North American Division Conference committee will hold its autumn meeting at the same time.

These big meetings will bring to the Pacific coast Seventh-Day Adventist leaders from all parts of the world. Elder A. G. Daniells, president of the world conference, who is now in China, visiting the various mission enterprises of the denomination, and who has just completed a tour of Australia and India, is expected to return to America in June. He will be chairman of the world council. Elder L. R. Conradi, president of the European division conference, is expected to be present. Elder R. C. Porter, of Shanghai, president of the Asiatic division, probably will attend. Elder W. A. Spicer, secretary of the World conference, left recently for South Africa, but will return in time for these important meetings on the coast.

The fact that these Adventist leaders will have just come from the European war zone, from overwrought China, and from many other war-torn districts, and that they have been closely in touch with actual conditions in these lands, will make their discourses in the civic auditorium in San Francisco of most intense interest. Even ministers have been drafted into the European war, and one of these, the president of a Seventh-Day Adventist conference in Europe, has been delivered miraculously time after time when on the firing line, and when other members of his gun crew were slain or wounded. Once he gave his sheltered position to a comrade with a family, less prepared to die, he felt. His comrade was wounded, he felt, unsheltered, was unhurt. Again, while on the firing line, he offered to bring within the lines a wounded comrade, when others feared to leave cover. Returning through the awful storm of leaden hail he found a shot had struck the cannoners, wounding two and throwing all the others back by the power of the explosion. "My heart was filled with thanksgiving and praise to God in the midst of the rumbling thunder of the battlefield," he writes.

Leaders who will be present at the council besides those mentioned will be: Elder I. H. Evans, president of the North American division conference; T. E. Bowen, assistant secretary of the general conference; W. T. Knox, treasurer of the general conference; G. B. Thompson, secretary of the North American division conference; N. Z. Trown, secretary of the publishing department; Frederick Griggs, secretary of the educational department; Mrs. L. Flora Plummer, secretary of the Sabbath school department; M. E. Kern, secretary of the young people's missionary volunteer department, all of Washington, D. C.; Dr. W. A. Rubee of Loma Linda, secretary of the medical department; Elders R. D. Quinn, South Lancaster, Mass.; R. A. Underwood, College View, Neb.; B. G. Wilkinson, Washington, D. C.; M. N. Campbell, Oshawa, Ontario, Canada; L. H. Christian, Chicago; Charles Thompson, Minneapolis, Minn.; C. W. Flaiz, College Place, Wash.; S. E. Wright, Nashville, Tenn.; G. F. Watson, Kenne, Tex.; H. S. Shaw, Calgary, Alberta, Canada, and all other leading men of the denomination.

buildings half buried in the weeds at the rear, a country school in California, attractive in its modern architecture and supporting a tennis court and a basketball ground is an incongruous sight to behold. Then when the kids come riding to school over pavements on their bicycles fresh from the farm the picture of a Musquakie Indian driving an automobile has been eclipsed as an object of interest. Marshalltown being a city, is expected to lead ahead of the country school, but Marshalltown has not yet waked up to the playground when practically every western city has provided them and in some of the larger cities bond issues have been voted to buy and equip the grounds.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM TROPICO AND NORTH GLENDALE

TROPICO

A golden basket, overflowing with pink and white verbenas centered the table at the charming home of Mr. Francis and Mrs. Booth on Gardena avenue Wednesday evening when they entertained with a dinner party complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. M. Stebbins, who leave shortly for Silver Creek, New York, where they will reside.

Mrs. C. Ehmke and Miss Julia Ehmke were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. Booth at the dinner. Following Miss Julia Ehmke's graduation from the Glendale Union high school in June, she and her mother, Mrs. C. Ehmke, will leave for New York, where they will reside in the future.

Enter "Polly of the Circus," fresh from its successes on the professional stage. From the pen of Margaret Mayo, author of the recent success, "Baby Mine," this play deals with a question old as the strife of the east and the west—the church versus the theater.

A young minister is put in charge of a congregation which is made up of prudish, narrow people. A circus pitches its tents within the village. Polly, the star rider, meets with an accident and, out of humanity, the minister has her carried into his home. Her injuries are so serious that she is left behind in the care of the minister's old housekeeper. As Polly slowly recovers the minister is strangely drawn to this little waif who has been entrusted to him by the nomadic, Gypsy-like people of the circus. He awakes to the fact that he loves her. Realizing the wall of convention which rises between the man of God and the circus girl he decides to send her from him. But one day as they read from the Good Book together they come upon the passage, "Entreat me not to leave thee, for whither thou goest I will go and where thou lodgest I will lodge; thy people shall be my people and thy God my God." The artificial barrier which the minister had built about himself and his creed was torn away. His God was her God by virtue of the spark of divinity which burned in the breast of each. In the new light which had been given them, they said each to the other, "Entreat me not to leave thee; thy people shall be my people and thy God my God."

The present capable production is to be put on at the Palace-Grand theater on the 22nd and 23rd and under the auspices of the High School Alumni association, a body which has in its midst more real theatrical talent than any kindred organization in this part of the state. Miss Barbara Mitchell will play the name part and has caught admirably the naive and mannerisms of the little circus girl. Dwight Stevenson, whose cleverness was shown in a late production of "Just Out of College," is cast as the young minister. Others in the cast are Vernon Snively, Angelo Gossman, Frank Littell, Owen Rhodes, Owen Emery, James Henry Hise, Winnifred Sinclair, Elsie Church, Rae Davis and Alma Turner.

Mr. Edgar S. Ayres entertained with a dinner party, replete in all its appointments, at her home on West Park avenue Tuesday. A graceful arrangement of red carnations and ferns centered the table, at which were seated with the hostess Mrs. Lela Steadman and Miss Ida Sugden of New York and Miss Louise Wilbur of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Wayland Brown of Gardena avenue has returned from a pleasant sojourn of several days in San Francisco.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mr. Leland Duncan of 1600 Ruth street, with Mr. Hunter Graham, his house guest, and a party of Los Angeles friends formed a stag party which enjoyed the Orpheum last Monday evening.

Last Tuesday afternoon one of the Whitten dairy wagons driven by an employe was wrecked, the horse receiving some severe cuts about the head by the colliding of the rig with a Burbank street car. The young man who drove the horse miraculously escaped injury.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Sampson of 1600 Ruth street entertained as their guests during the past week end Mrs. Sampson's parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Ellis and Miss Adella Ellis of Somis, Ventura county. Saturday afternoon the guests, with Mr. and Mrs. Sampson, enjoyed a trip to Los Angeles, having dinner at the Mission cafe, after which they went to the Orpheum, reporting a very pleasant time.

Mrs. A. B. Clement of 1321 North Pacific avenue, with Mrs. E. F. Clement and daughter, Ethel Mae, of Lindsay, Cal., will spend the week end in Pasadena, where they will be guests of Mrs. Walter Evans of 1227 Sierra Bonita street.

Master Lawrence Bassett of 1445 Valley View road met with an accident several days ago, the lad falling and breaking his arm. Upon an X-ray examination it was discovered to be a compound fracture and while he is getting along as well as can be expected considering the seriousness of the injury, it will be some time before he will be able to be about.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clement of 1321 North Pacific avenue entertained at dinner Wednesday evening complimentary to their daughter-in-law, Mrs. E. F. Clement, of Lindsay, Cal., who with her little daughter, Ethel Mae, are visiting them. The rooms were prettily decorated with Gold of Ophir roses, the same flowers being arranged as a centerpiece on the table where covers were laid for eight and an elaborate full course dinner was served by the gracious hostess to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Eastman and Master Sam, Jr., of Los Angeles; Mrs. Jas. Littell and Mr. Frank Littell of Glendale, the charming honoree, Mrs. E. F. Clement, Miss Ethel Mae and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clement.

'THE PLAY'S THE THING'

POLLY OF THE CIRCUS COMES FRESH FROM SUCCESS OF PROFESSIONAL STAGE

Since the last barn-storming concern stormed into town, stormed through a lurid mellerdrammer to the fitting accompaniment of much very stagy thunder and lightning, then cleared out again we have had little in the theatrical line to disturb the even tenor of our way.

Glendale has never ranked high as a theatrical producing center. Upon occasion, perspiring youngsters who were painfully self conscious in doublet and hose and laced sleeves have chattered through "Lay on, Macduff, and dinged be him who first cries 'Hold, enough!'" or lines to that effect. But presentation of modern up-to-date dramas has been conspicuous for its absence.

Enter "Polly of the Circus," fresh from its successes on the professional stage. From the pen of Margaret Mayo, author of the recent success, "Baby Mine," this play deals with a question old as the strife of the east and the west—the church versus the theater.

A young minister is put in charge of a congregation which is made up of prudish, narrow people. A circus pitches its tents within the village. Polly, the star rider, meets with an accident and, out of humanity, the minister has her carried into his home. Her injuries are so serious that she is left behind in the care of the minister's old housekeeper. Realizing the wall of convention which rises between the man of God and the circus girl he decides to send her from him. But one day as they read from the Good Book together they come upon the passage, "Entreat me not to leave thee, for whither thou goest I will go and where thou lodgest I will lodge; thy people shall be my people and thy God my God." The artificial barrier which the minister had built about himself and his creed was torn away. His God was her God by virtue of the spark of divinity which burned in the breast of each. In the new light which had been given them, they said each to the other, "Entreat me not to leave thee; thy people shall be my people and thy God my God."

THOMPSON, CHICAGO MAYOR

Wm. Hale Thompson, Republican, was elected mayor of Chicago Tuesday by a plurality of nearly 140,000 over his opponent, Robert Sweitzer, Democrat, the highest plurality ever given a candidate for mayor of Chicago and was the culmination of a bitter campaign. A total vote of 650,000 was cast. Chicago women are said to have had a large part in the results of the election.

In a way, the result is another stinging blow to Roger Sullivan and what he stands for. After his defeat for United States senator he was charged with an attempt to secure control of the city, choosing as his nominee Sweitzer, who had always been a very successful campaigner. It was figured that Sweitzer, with his German name, would capture the heavy German-American vote, all of the Catholic vote and enough scattering to give him a plurality of 110,000. The returns from the German wards show he did not get their votes and injection of the religious question lost him many Democratic votes.

ST. MARK'S CHURCH

Rev. George Davidson of St. John's church, Los Angeles, will preach tonight in St. Mark's church, Glendale, at 8 o'clock. Tomorrow afternoon the Women's auxiliary will meet at the residence of Mrs. A. M. Parker, 311 South Louise street, at 2:30 p. m., and at 8 p. m. Mr. G. Frank Shelby, field secretary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, will preach.

YOU ARE WELCOME

WE GLADLY EXTEND THE HAND OF FELLOWSHIP TO NORTH GLENDALE

Citizens of the Casa Verdugo or North Glendale territory will decide by voting Saturday if they wish to have the territory in which they reside annexed to Glendale. The Evening News will be pleased to learn Saturday evening after the polls have been closed and the ballots counted that it is the desire of the majority of the voters of that territory to become citizens of Glendale. The Evening News extends to you a welcome hand. The editor of the News has been a resident of Glendale for rather more than two years, and he is well pleased with the city in which he resides. He always mentions the name Glendale with a feeling of pride, believing that he holds citizenship in one of the best governed, neatest and best located cities in the United States.

FOR HER MOTHER'S SAKE

In response to inquiries made today as to whether it would be possible for her to fill her engagement to read the Song of Deborah in the Famous Women of the Bible, to be given tonight at the Union High school in Glendale, Mrs. Sloan said: "Yes, I shall keep my word. I will read tonight if God gives me the required strength to do so. My precious mother has always loved the Song of Deborah, especially because it is taken from the Bible. Mother knows I am to read tonight. She expects me to do my best. It will be her joyful privilege to help me now in far greater measure than she has ever been able to do while her mortal spirit was shackled in its house of clay. You know mother has not 'departed,' she has just 'arrived.' Mother has arrived safely at last within the blessed border toward which her frail bark has been tending for seventy-five years. Mother has arrived within the boundaries of that dear country where 'form' and 'sham' and 'conventionalities' are all unknown. She lives today, surrounded by real things. She will live forever amidst eternal verities. So I expect to read tonight, upheld by her love and by the thoughts and prayers of hundreds of loving hearts in Glendale."

HONOR EASTERN GUESTS

A delightful card party was that given by Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Shaull of 431 S. San Fernando road on Wednesday evening to about thirty friends. The affair was in honor of Mr. John R. Thorpe of Detroit, Michigan, who is a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Shaull. Another out-of-town guest who was present was Mrs. Forrest Orr of New York.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns; the living room being in white lilies and roses, the library in lilies, the hall in red geraniums, one room in the sweet purple and white stocks and another in red carnations. Five hundred was the game of the evening and the prizes were won by Mrs. Baker and Mr. Henry.

Delightful refreshments were served at small tables at a late hour, and the guests departed all declaring that they had passed a most enjoyable and happy evening.

HOUSEPARTY GIRLS

On Saturday evening Mrs. John Hobbs of 600 N. Central avenue entertained the Houseparty Girls with a dinner party in honor of the sixteenth birthday of one of the girls, Miss Esther Schremp. A delightful course dinner was served at the beautifully decorated table, with dainty place cards and favors and a candle lighted birthday cake, which was cut by the happy honoree.

After dinner Mr. Logan, uncle of Miss Hobbs, escorted all the girls to the Mason Opera House in Los Angeles, where they enjoyed the play, "Potash and Perlmutter." The girls who enjoyed this delightful evening were: Miss Kathleen Dodge, Miss Evangeline Hunchberger, Miss Esther Schremp, Miss Pauline Hamilton, Miss Mary Jane Evans and Miss Dorothy Hobbs.

M. E. AID

The Ladies' Aid of the First Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. Lacey, 135 S. Kenwood street, Tuesday afternoon. After the usual business session, it was found that in the membership contest both sides had tied and it was therefore decided to give a banquet luncheon at the church at the May meeting of the Aid and to invite to the luncheon all of the new lady members of the church as special guests of the Aid.

Mrs. Lacey served light refreshments to the ladies and a pleasant social hour concluded the afternoon.

CURIO TEA

VERY UNIQUE AND INTERESTING EXHIBIT HELD AT HOME OF MRS. BARTLETT

One of the most worth while things recently given by the Tuesday Afternoon club was the curio tea at the home of Mrs. H. E. Bartlett on Brand boulevard. The home was decorated in purple lupine and the soft colors and delicate odor of this flower blended beautifully with the rare old things that were on display.

The hospitality committee, Mrs. Howard H. Martin, chairman, was in charge. She was ably assisted by Mesdames H. E. Bartlett, J. W. Elliott, H. R. Goodwin, Frank Hester, W. W. McElroy, George Mitchell, E. L. Clark, Albert Pearce, V. Price Brown, Fred W. Pigg, Walter Stamps, John Robert White, Jr., J. T. Hearnshaw, E. S. McKee.

There were many ladies present, but the attendance was not what it should have been considering the wonderful collection of curios and antiques that had been assembled.

Among the old and interesting things displayed was china 150 and 200 years old, Canton, Union and Dresden, quaint cups and pitchers; rare books, a fine collection of Indian baskets and relics from Alaska, beautiful antique jewelry, an autograph of Charles Dickens, old Colonial bed warmers, several samplers, one worked by a girl of eight years in 1820, a great many old bed spreads and coverlets made in Colonial days, army relics, wonderful hand made laces, brass and copper articles from over the seas, interesting relics of brass and pewter of Colonial times, old daguerreotypes and ambrotypes, articles from the Philippines, many of them showing exquisite needlework; beautiful bead work from Russia and other countries, old paintings, old chairs and a robe worn by a bishop in Italy a hundred years ago.

This was the finest and most artistically arranged exhibit that could have been shown in a private home and the hospitality committee thanks all who so kindly loaned their treasures, and all who in any way contributed to the success of the exhibit.

Home-made cake and tea were served during the afternoon and evening.

METROPOLITAN METHODS

Los Angeles is making every effort to enlarge its area and power. One plan is to take in all the surrounding towns, a bill to render this easy having been pressed through the senate by H. S. Benedict, P. R. D. Another is to consolidate Los Angeles city and county governments, perhaps causing the erection of a new county to embrace that portion not willing to be gathered into the metropolitan fold. The palpable desire to add Long Beach to the Los Angeles total of wealth and population causes a natural interest here as to political methods there. This quite apart from financial questions that may be discussed from time to time.

Los Angeles is about to choose a mayor. With plenty of good material available, it is fair to say that the only good man yet mentioned definitely for the place is Chief of Police Sebastian. He has an excellent record officially, and high standing personally, this being enough to have won him enemies of the sort which any decent citizen naturally would be proud. These enemies are determined upon defeating Sebastian. They have gone about it by raking the moral gutters that form their own habitat, and collecting the evidence of outcasts of that particularly degraded quality that could obtain no credence anywhere. Here is an exhibition of stupidity coupled with vice. They have resorted to slander, bribery and threat, and, it is to be regretted, seem to command the tacit assistance of some of the organized forces of local government.

This is not particularly Long Beach's fight, but it shows the type of politics into which this city would be introduced were it made a part of Los Angeles. At least this smaller city has the privilege of being clean in its methods, and it has not yet reached a stage at which decency would hesitate to enter the lists lest it be thrown at it.—Long Beach Telegram.

The Pacific Electric employes have issued invitations for a royal assembly ball to do honor to Miss Sibyl Mather, queen of Southern California, and Miss Martha Dietrich and Miss Sara Melton, vice queens, and the ladies of their court at the Shrine auditorium Monday evening, April 12.

GANG POLITICS

It is a long, long way to political decency under the elective system in vogue in our country. Citizens who are otherwise decent often stoop to the most revolting crimes to elect their favorites to office. The conviction of 116 men in the United States court at Indianapolis last Monday for election frauds is a case in point. Mayor Roberts of Terre Haute, Ind., is the principal culprit, but 26 others were convicted and 89 pleaded guilty. The conviction of Roberts and his associates is the culmination of a long fight against gang politics in Terre Haute. The men were charged with conspiracy to corrupt the election held last November and the fact that candidates for United States senator and congress were voted for made possible the return of federal indictments.

Witnesses called by the government during the trial included gamblers, saloon keepers and former political henchmen of Roberts, who told of wholesale repeating, manipulation of voting machines and other irregularities.

PRIZES FOR FOREST FIREMEN

The prizes offered by the U. S. district forester for particularly meritorious work in fighting forest fires during last fire season have been awarded to Clarence M. Reeve of the Klamath National Forest, Milton D. Morris of the Eldorado and Ernest E. Duncan of the Trinity.

Guard Reeve was notified by District Ranger Phillips of a serious fire on the mountainside eight miles from his station. He saddled up and arrived at the fire, properly equipped, in time to prevent it from spreading, having covered the distance in one hour and twelve minutes. He watched the fire all night and in the early morning was informed that men were needed to fight a fire on Walker creek. He rode all day to reach this fire, arriving in time to assist in corraling it. The next day and a half he spent felling the burning snags and making the fire safe; and then returned to his station, having spent four days doing efficient work with practically no rest.

Guard Morris was notified after dark that a fire had started five miles from his station. He was ready in one and one-half minutes and arrived at the fire over a very rough trail in one hour and fifteen minutes.

Guard Duncan with one assistant rode eighteen miles and extinguished two fires in one day, the fires being widely separated and in exceptionally difficult country.

The prizes are in the form of framed certificates, each bearing the name of the winner.

SALOONMAN THREATENS SENATOR

The fight being carried on by Senator Edwin M. Butler of Los Angeles to provide the machinery for closing saloons in the vicinity of universities and state normal schools was enlivened this week by a threat against Senator Butler's life.

Senator Butler's bill is known as the "Dry Zone" bill. Under it, the provisions of the law—more than 30 years on the statute books—which places a "dry zone" of one mile around the state university, are extended to all universities and state normal schools. Incidentally, should the measure become a law, some 500 of the more than 2000 saloons at San Francisco, which are in the vicinity of St. Ignatius college and the state normal school would have to seek new locations. This fact aroused astonishing opposition against the bill.

Some one, signing himself "A Saloon Keeper and a Good American Citizen," wrote Senator Butler from San Francisco stating that in the event of the Dry Zone bill becoming a law, "I will take the law into my own hands and I will kill you as sure as the sun rises."

Senator Butler has been a thorn in the side of the tenderloin element that operates in and out of San Francisco ever since he has been in the state legislature. Nothing, since the contest over the Redlight Abatement act, has worked this element up as has Butler's Dry Zone bill. They could reach Senator Grant of San Francisco, author of the Redlight Abatement act, through the recall. But Senator Butler comes from a more wholesome community and senatorial district than did Senator Grant. The lawless element at San Francisco cannot reach him through the recall. They are not particularly nice about their methods, and if they could not reach him any other way, they unquestionably would not hesitate to reach him as they tried to reach Francis J. Heney when Heney threatened them. The letter sent Butler indicates that they would reach Butler in precisely the same way they tried to reach Heney.—Legislative Bulletin.

ILLITERACY IN THE SOUTH

"It beats the Dutch," ejaculated the member of the Georgia school committee, "and I can't understand it at all. Here's all these Georgia and California mountaineers who fought the compulsory education bill last year because they and their fathers had got on well enough without being able to read and write; here's these same old codgers this winter clamoring for a seat at the district night school. I wonder why?"

"Hit's like this," explained another member of the school board. "Six months since a moving picture theater was established in the town of Wayback, and the mountain folks flocked in from miles around; they just got wild over the pictures. Then they found they couldn't more than half understand a photoplay because they couldn't read the titles. Hence the rush for the A, B, C class. Their fathers got along well enough without education, but they had no picture plays then."

GOVERNING THE CHICKEN

It is proposed that a commission be created to watch the welfare of the California hen. It is to be in the hands of one who is truly great in the chicken business. He is to understand the methods by which biddy may be induced to lay, to be expert in relation to pip, able to detect roup at a glance, and therefore to prescribe according to the highest ethics of poultrydom. If one could be found possessing all this knowledge, and at the same time master of some system of subduing the crowing rooster, then would the people of the state be joyed. Perhaps in his annual report he could explain the secret of the hen's crossing the road, as well as the mystery of crossing breeds to the best advantage. He might go so far as to solve the vexing problem touching priority as between the chicken and the egg, each side now having stubborn advocates. Who knows all there is to know about the hen? And who doesn't want to know it all? Why, there are some who in their ignorance are incompetent to whitewash a hen coop. Let us have reform! There is a belief that a person with complete mastery of the hen business, even to understanding how to paralyze the aspirations of a persistent setter, could be induced, for the small sum of $3000 yearly and perquisites, to loosen up the founts of wisdom, and then everybody could get rich, beginning with a healthy setting, or in case of failure, sue the commonwealth for issuing bum instructions. There's something doing in the legislature every day.

ACCOUNTING FOR THE HYPHEN

Mrs. Dearborn—You say that is Mrs. Burke-Martin?

Mrs. Wabash—Yes; Burke was her name and Martin was her husband's name.

Mrs. Dearborn—But why does she use the hyphen between the names?

Mrs. Wabash—To show that she is separated from her husband.—London Standard.

THE WAILING PLACE

In this sad world, with griefs be-girt, the more we howl the more we're hurt. Misfortunes seem to keep the trail of those who raise the loudest wail. The business men, in pomp arrayed, who own big palaces of trade, and have their minions by the score, don't very often raise a roar. If things go wrong they do not sigh, or show the world a streaming eye. They do not advertise bad luck—that will not draw the patron's buck. They advertise the gorgeous fact that they have red hot bargains stacked all through the store, all sorts and styles; and when you go you're met with smiles. The merchant in yon tin-horn store, who's been there thirty years or more, who has a dribbling stream of trade from those who'll stand for goods decayed, is always at the wailing place, has always tears upon his face. The man who aims to get ahead, and not be numbered with the dead, must sound the brave and joyful note, and keep a firm grip on his goat.

AN ENFORCED PURCHASE

A dandy went into a photographer's in a country town to get his photograph taken. When the job was done he refused to pay on the ground that the picture was not like him.

"All right," said Pat, "leave it there."

Next day he was passing the place and saw his picture in a showcase, and under it were the words in big letters:

"The ugliest mug in town."

He rushed in and abused Pat.

"But, me man," said Pat, "yes-terday ye said the picture was not like you, so you have no reason to complain."

Pat sold him the photograph.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

THE POOR PRINTER

When a plumber makes a mistake he charges twice for it.

When a lawyer makes a mistake, it's just what he wanted, because he has a chance to try the case all over again.

When a carpenter makes a mistake it's just what he expected, because the chances are 10 to 1 that he never learned his business.

When an electrician makes a mistake he blames it on induction because nobody knows what that is.

When a doctor makes a mistake he buries it.

When a judge makes a mistake it becomes a law of the land.

When the preacher makes a mistake nobody knows the difference.

But when a printer makes a mistake it's there in black and white and every one is willing to "rub it in."

PANTAGES NEXT WEEK

A real musical comedy is promised at Pantages for the week starting with Monday's matinee. "Outside Inn" is the name, and advance reports indicate that it is very much Mathews and Bulger in comedy methods and effects. John W. Early is the instigator and chief perpetrator of the comedy aforesaid, in which he is aided and abetted by his humorous partner, Pearl M. Leight. "Outside Inn" was written in Los Angeles when these two comedians were vacationing here a few months ago. Beside the strong comedy element there is the further attraction of feminine beauty and music ad lib. The chorus ought to be the best of the season if Early still retains the capacity for training the "Merry Merry" that once distinguished him.

Mr. and Mrs. Robyns will present "David Berg" or "One Hundred Cents on the Dollar," a legitimate comedy of Jewish family life. Mr. Robyns enacts the title roll, impersonating a retired silk merchant, a portraiture of Jewish character that will appeal to every one familiar with the type.

Ed Pierce and Marie Roslyn offer new popular songs and instrumental music on piano-accompaniment and other instruments. Wright and Davis have a clever conversational comedy entitled "The Love Insurance Agent." Williams brothers are champion clog dancers. Menomoe Aiken & Co. have a spectacular novelty entitled "On Crocodile Isle," and Charlie Chaplin will disport in the pantage-scope comedy.

MAY NOT CHARGE ADMISSION

A recent decision of Attorney-General Webb of California makes clear the fact that school boards of the state have no choice but to deny all applications for the use of school buildings where admission is to be charged, even though no rental money is offered. In rendering a decision the following points were noted:

A school board may lease, rent or give free, for literary, scientific, recreational or moral meetings or discussions, the use of the public school buildings.

It may conduct, itself, any such affairs in the schools.

It may not give, lease or rent the schools to individuals for private gain or where public participation is limited in any way by charging admission.

The granting of school property for such purposes is wholly within the discretion of the board.

"Germany may have to answer for an American's death." More diplomatic notes in prospect?

War used to be spoken of as the profession of gentlemen, but nobody seems to think of it that way any more.

Mrs. Mohler, who has spent the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Crutchfield, left Wednesday for her home in Pittsburg. Her many friends and acquaintances will miss her sadly. The ladies of Glendale Heights met in honor of Mrs. Mohler Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Pirtle.

Work has begun in earnest on Canada boulevard and a temporary bridge has been made across the stream on Wabasso way. Automobiles as well as other vehicles can now cross easily.

Mr. Lindsay, who has been quite ill with bronchitis, is up and around again.

Over one hundred new books have lately been sent by the county librarian to the library at Glendale Heights.

Mr. Pirtle a short while ago received a very interesting letter from Mr. Mesnager, who is in France fighting for his native country. He says he loves America and would fight for Old Glory if there were war in the United States.

THE BIG DEBATE

As the time draws near for what will undoubtedly be one of the world's greatest religious debates announced for Trinity auditorium on the nights of April 21, 22, 23, 24 there are many inquiries concerning reserved seats. It is expected that long before the time for commencing every seat will be taken. Rev. Troy, however, has arranged to reserve 125 seats on the platform for which tickets will be issued upon request. Those who speak first will be first served and as but two weeks remain all in Glendale, Tropico and Casa Verdugo who positively desire to be present for the Troy-Rutherford debate will need to step lively. Mr. Troy requests that as he is exceedingly busy it will help him if all who are interested in attending Trinity auditorium on any or all of the nights of the debate will get in touch with the committee on reserved seats by phoning Glendale 186-W any evening between five and seven o'clock. First come first served.

THE MARVEL OF IT

In the production of potatoes Germany leads the world. It is most successful in the growing of sugar beets. It raises proportionately more wheat than the United States," says the Long Beach Telegram. Its management of forests well might be taken as model. Its livestock is of the finest strains. Of its total area only 9 per cent is not actively cultivated. The secret of its success in these lines is intensive farming, carried on in accordance with rules scientifically established. The "farms" so-called are so small that in this country they would be rated as truck patches. There is, or was, organization and co-operation. As to internal government, Germany is the most advanced nation. Its cities are ruled by methods that the cities of the United States would be wise to imitate. Of course, it has, in one sense, the advantage of being small and compact, being in extent considerably less than Texas. If the German system could be put into operation here, the immensity of the crop yield of the United States would be almost beyond computation. If the part of it applying to internal government and to marketing also could be employed here, the people of this country would be prosperous beyond anything of which the most optimistic has dreamed. But here appears the marvel of it all.

With its splendid progress, its unity of purpose, its sure prosperity, its government measures working smoothly, and for the common good, Germany plunges into the most costly and palpably needless war of all history. Industry is brought to a standstill, and the appliances through whose operation it had flourished fall into decay, while the workman is called from his useful duty to rot in a trench. Debts are created to more than wipe out all that has been gained. The arts of peace, so profitably and skillfully pursued, are deserted for the brutal arts of conflict, out of which, though Germany win at every point, no good could come. It is as though the builder reared a beautiful and stately structure, and then with his own hand applied the torch. Rapidly coming to be an example to the world, Germany finds itself almost alone in Europe, hated with a bitter hate, and hardly with a friend even among the peoples who strive to be neutral and to make for the belligerents some excuse tending to palliate their offending. As to the beholder, admiring what Germany had accomplished in twenty-five years, this is the marvel before which he stands aghast, unable to frame a word of explanation, and discerning no merit in the lame and impotent excuses proffered for his acceptance.

THE WORST OF IT

"Father always gets the worst of it at bridge."
"How's that?"
"Well, if he loses, that isn't pleasant. And if he wins mother always says she's glad to see him winning. He takes this as an intimation that he's a poor loser and that gets him up in the air."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A BLUFF

Mrs. Newly-Rich cut her visit short, descended the broad stairway and entered the elegant automobile awaiting her; then she bawled loudly and haughtily:

"Home, James."
James steered for home, but before he had gone two blocks Mrs. Newly-Rich countermanded the order thus:

"James, that was only for effect. Drive to the nearest moving-picture show and leave me there for the afternoon."

FORGIVE AND FORGET

Life is too short and differences between man and man are too trifling to allow grudges to go unsettled. How easy it should be for a man with the right kind of a heart to say "If I am to blame I ask you to forgive me," but few men have the courage to honestly say that. It is only a strong man who will own up to his own faults.
